

SIMISOLA

Simisola Olabisi Dahunsi, a.k.a. "SIMISOLA," is a Nigerian Dutch- American performing artist that fuses soul, jazz, R&B and pop elements into her music. An alumna of Berklee College of Music, she cites her uncle, World Music instrumentalist and producer, Yomi Omidiran (King Sunny Ade, Majek Fashek, Onyenka Onwenu among others) as an early inspiration and for helping to identify her musical ability. SIMISOLA's use of indigenous sounds paired with her desire to experiment contribute greatly to her creative process. She likes to produce "whatever her soul feels" and refers to her brand new release Kings & Queens: Love Quest, as "soul sounds that awaken sight." The EP, released June 2015, is an exciting mix of driving rhythms and inviting melodies that tastefully showcase her vocal prowess. She is currently performing within the U.S. and abroad in support of her album.
